Feel Eating of a Millionaire as Compared with That of the Man Who Made the Money.

A Case of Faith Cure.

The Asthmatic was awakened from a sound sleep by a terrible attack of short breathing

'Open the window," he gasped; "I am choking to death."

The Mystic sprang from bed and groped along the wall for the electric-light button, but could not find it. Then he groped for the window and his hand touched the glass.

"It is fastened," he cried; "I can't find the catch It will not move up or down."

So the Mystic felt for the footstool, over which he had just stubbed his toes, and used the corner of it to smash the glass.

"Ah," said the Asthmatic, with a long sigh of relief, "I am better. There is nothing like fresh air."

Then they all went to sleep again.

The morning roused them slowly, and they lay on their backs looking around the room. The windows were closed and the shades drawn.

But the glass door of the book case had a great hole in it.

"You see!" said the Mystic. "It was the faith cure. The Oversoul cured you."

"Not at all," said the Sceptic. "It was the doubt cure. The way to get rid of a thing is to doubt it."

"I think," said the Asthmatic, that it was the nightmare, and that miscellaneous cooking is the cause of human misery. We have travelled enough, and yet we have found no better air than we left at home."

So they went back to the certain village and continued their disputations very happily for the rest of their lives. —From "Half-Told Tales—A Change of Air," by Henry Van Dyke, in the March Scribner.

Eating.

"A few days ago I accepted an invitation to lunch with the heir of one of Chicago's packers.

"'Louis,' he said, after examining the menu languorously. 'A small portion of the clear soup, and please have Adolph brush the edge of the cups with a sprig of garlic. He forgot it yesterday.

"'And, Louis, a trifle of the goose liver. Please serve it on the inside leaves of the head lettuce. A salad of pimento and grapefruit, Louis. I shall make the dressing. Please bring me my own oil and my box of chili pepper. The flavor of that which they serve here is much inferior, so I import my own oil and chili,' he explained to me.

"He concluded the order after some criticism and effort and turned to me: 'I'm beastly hungry, old Top,' he remarked. 'I've really a vulgar appetite. I've gone in heavy for physical culture, you know, and I eat like a harvest hand.'

"The point of this story is I was a friend of his grandfather. I used to see him in the cattle pens at the yards at 4 a. m., jabbing his thumbs into the ribs of steers, wading through the mire and bidding lustily. About 7 a. m, when he had bid in enough beef for the day's kill, he walked over to Gleim's sausage factory.

"And he and Looie, the boss sausage maker, would eat five pounds of 'red-hots' and the gravy sopped up with bread, drink a half gallon of scalding coffee and discuss the market. He lived to be seventy-two. His grand son will die before he is thirty-five."

Orchard Neighbors.

"I think the sunny side of an apple orchard is an ideal place for a country bee yard. This is desirable because it often rains during blossoming season, and if the bees are housed far away they dare not venture into the orchard, and the consequence is that the honey is not made, nor are the apple blossoms pollenized. You must bear in mind that all this while the bees are not only making honey but making fruit sure by cross pollenizing. They will carry pollen from one variety to another on their bodies and so perform a delicate function for which Nature appointed them.

"If your apiary is just in the corner of the orchard, they will dart out between showers and do a lot of work in spite of a wet season. You will get a full crop of fruit while your neighbors will get only meager returns. If you are using plums and cherries for fillers in your orchard, they will also serve the bees for honey and the bees will serve them in the way of pollenizing."

Middle West Prosperity.

Western farmers are converting much of their prosperity into attractive homes, macadam roads, asphalt streets, cement walks, spacious parks, and handsome public buildings. Telephones, bathtubs, hot and cold water, acetylene gas, pianos, gramophones, books and magazines are going into the houses. In January you may find half a thousand Northern farmers basking in certain of the Gulf resorts. For three years the West has been the largest market for the moderate-priced automobiles. Pennsylvania has issued one automobile license for every 178 of her people; Ohio, Michigan, Wisconsin, and Minnesota have outstanding one license to about every 100 inhabitants. But Iowa has licensed one machine for every thirty-one persons, Nebraska one for every fifty-three, and South Dakota one for every thirty-five!—From Edward Alsworth Ross' "The Middle West," in the March "Century."

Social Life in the Suburbs.

Margaret Woodward in a strong article on "Proper Social Life for Suburban Young People,' in the March "Suburban Life Magazine," makes the following assertion: "I affirm that the best social life for young people is that which comes from mingling together in out-door sports. They are golf, tennis, croquet, horse-back riding, bicycling, ball games, in the summer; coasting, skating, skeeing, in the winter. As contrasted with the city youth; the country youth has by far the best fun. He has practically all outdoors for his playground, and his temptations to abuse his hours of leisure are materially lessened."

Old Fashioned Flowers.

"The popularity of many of the old-fashioned garden flowers probably came about because of their pro fuse floral beauty and their rough-and-ready ability to adjust themselves to all sorts of gardening conditions. Some of these flowers, the annuals, cast their own seeds. Others, the perennials, survive the winters, and reproduce or continue their growths. Certain of the bulbs and more tender root-storing plants and vines require very little attention. Many of these old favorites furnish flavoring or seasoning for broths, graves, dressings and meats. They grew vigorously and prospered luxuriantly, along with the favorite herbs that were considered so necessary for the old-time family simples"—Francis P. Fielding in the "Magazine Flowers" for March.

Counterfeit Food Worse Than Counfeit Money.

In an interesting article in the March WOMAN'S HOME COMPANION, descriptive of the work of Miss Esther Allstrum, who, as Food Inspector in the City of Tacoma, has made a long and successful fight for clean food, there appears the following clear and forceful definition of just what it means for a dealer to sell bad food to consumers:

"Passing counterfeit has long been a crime severely punished, and everyone resents being so imposed upon. Is not counterfeit food, which is laden with disease or lowered in food-value, even a greater crime, which the whole public ought to resent?

"A large part of every income is invested in food, and every citizen has a right to expect good, clean food for good, clean money; he ought to demand it when he buys."

OUR SWIFT LEGAL JUSTICE

Witness Fancied He Knew Mr. Brown, but He Was Undeceived by Opposing Counsel.

"You say you know Mr. Brown?" asks the lawyer, according to the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

"Yes, sir."

"You will swear to that?"

"Yes, sir."

"You mean that you are acquainted with Mr. Brown?"

"That's what I mean. I am—"

"Stop. You don't know him—you are merely acquainted with him. You don't mean to tell the court, then, that you know all about Mr. Brown and everything he ever did?"

"Of course not. I suppose—"

"Never mind what you suppose. Don't get mixed up—you are under oath. So you don't know everything Brown ever did?"

"No, sir."

"That is to say, you aren't so well acquainted with him as you just said you were?"

"Well, I guess—"

"Quit guessing. We are beginning to understand each other now. You can't swear that you know Brown."

"Well, if you put it that way—"

"Never mind how I put it. I ask you a plain question and you must give a plain answer. Don't try to evade—say yes or no."

"No."

"Aha! So, in point of fact, you don't know Brown at all?"

"Why—er—no, sir."

(And if anybody thinks this is burlesque stuff, we may remark that we got it from an old notebook of a former court reporter. And we copied it word for word—except that the witness' name wasn't Brown.)

Seeker After Knowledge.

One day as my young brother and I were out feeding my pigeons he happened to see some young ones which did not have their eyes opened, and he asked me soberly: "When do the big ones peck holes for their eyes?"—Exchange.

Judson Harmon, Ohio's New Hope For the Presidency

Buckeye State Has Elected Four Republican Presidents, but No Democrat.

How Governor Harmon's Fate Line Has Crossed That of President Taft.

ONE OF A SERIES OF ARTICLES ON THE PRESIDENTIAL CAMPAIGN

By JAMES A. EDGERTON.

DESPITE the fact that Ohio is the "mother of presidents," she has never furnished a Democratic president or even a Democratic nominee. This year the Buckeye State is intent on correcting this oversight. Since the Republican party was born she has furnished four out of ten of the Republican presidents and two more who were born in Ohio. During the same period she has put across only one poor vice presidential candidate on the Democratic side, and he was defeated. The reference is to Allan G. Thurman, the "old Roman."

It is time that Ohio and the Democratic party got together and corrected this mutual defect. Will they do it?

Well, Ohio is willing, and Ohio knows the game. The Buckeye Democrats have a fullfledged presidential candidate His name is Judson Harmon, judge, attorney general of the United States and the only Democrat who has served two consecutive terms as governor of Ohio since the civil war.

Harmon's fate line has crossed that of William Howard Taft in a peculiar manner. Both were born in the same county and live in the same city When Harmon resigned as superior court judge in Cincinnati, Taft was appointed in his stead. Later Harmon went into the cabinet, and a few years later Taft followed suit. The same year that Taft was elected president carrying Ohio by approximately 70,000, Harmon was chosen governor with a plurality of 19,000. Is this strange chapter of coincidences now to be completed by the two opposing each other as candidates for president of the United States?

What He Has Done.

William J. Bryan claims that Governor Harmon is a reactionary and refuses to put him in the Commoner list of "eligibles." Harmon's friends retort that he was the first attorney general to galvanize the Sherman anti trust law into a semblance of life and point to a long list of progressive measures he has put through as governor of Ohio. For one thing he has equalized taxation, putting upon the railroads and other corporations something approaching their just share of the public burden. For another he has introduced economy, cut off sinecures and prosecuted grafting and dishonest state officials. For a third he has put through a corrupt practices act and has made elections a little cleaner and more decent These are but the beginnings of the good things he has actually accomplished, and that with very little noise.

I recall two actions of Harmon a governor that indicate his character One was his advocacy of legislation to enable cities to adopt the initiative and referendum. Personally he did not believe in direct legislation, but the Democratic party had placed an initiative and referendum plank in the state platform, and he thought it his duty to carry out the promise. The other instance was his firm stand in handling the street car strike. There was high feeling, and popular sentiment was with the strikers. Yet Governor Harmon risked losing the support of all these people by his firmness in handling the situation. A weak man might have hesitated. Harmon moved promptly, and so much do the American people love honesty and courage that the incident did not hurt him at all, even among workingmen

Won Over Tom Johnson.

There are many other occurrences in kind. When first a candidate for governor Judge Harmon was opposed by Tom L. Johnson. The candidate of the Johnson men was Atlee Pomerene of Canton. Yet two years later the governor openly supported Pomerene's candidacy for the United States senate. It is not without interest that Johnson lived to reverse his opinion of Harmon and supported him in manly fashion two years ago.

At the time of his first inauguration Governor Harmon was receiver of two railroads. He resigned, but Judge Lurton, who had appointed him receiver, refused to accept the resignation. The fact that Harmon held this office after becoming governor and received more salary from it than from the state of Ohio occasioned criticism Yet there is no evidence that he neglected either office. On the contrary, he received high praise for his manner of conducting the receivership and what the people of Ohio thought of his handling of the other job they told him by 100,000 majority in 1910

As receiver it is said of him that he never cut wages or had a strike, that he dealt with the official representatives of the unions and that on the occasion of the wreck of an excursion train carrying employees he waived his legal rights and dealt directly with the injured persons in the matter of settlements.

Is He Another Jackson?

As a candidate for president Governor Harmon has had little to say, as usual, but has gone the even tenor of his way. He has refused to let his boomers invade New Jersey and other states that had favorite sons of their own. He did not even speak at the Jackson day banquet in Washington, where the Democratic national committee foregathered and where William Jennings Bryan, Woodrow Wilson, Champ Clark and others of the faithful held forth. Instead, he journeyed down to East St. Louis, in the land of "Egypt," and addressed an audience that had to keep their overcoats on, it being somewhere from 7 to 17 degrees below zero on the outside. That was the occasion when he cried, "Oh, for an hour of Andrew Jackson!" One or two of the papers got it, "Oh, for another Andrew Jackson!" and wondered if Governor Harmon himself did not fill the bill.

A few of the other recent sayings of the Ohio governor make good Democratic reading

An ounce of performance is worth a ton of talk

I'm like the man from Missouri on the initiative and referendum—let's see how it works out

I think more of saving my prayers than of throwing up my hat when I think of the responsibilities of the presidential office

My Yan ee blood rebels at extravagance I believe in economy in all things

No one has ever defined the "progressive' for me Accomplish necessary reforms That is progress

Platform of Three Planks.

The program on which Governor Harmon is making his campaign is exceedingly brief, consisting of but three items: Reduction of the tariff, revival of industrial health by control of trusts economy of government.

On the tariff question he stands for the time honored Democratic principle of a tariff for revenue. The present tariff he calls a system of "favor taxes." Elsewhere he has said. "A favorite tariff is contrived with regard chiefly to the distribution of benefits among claimants, by a scale which varies with their respective influence, persistence and willingness to reciprocate."

On the trust question Governor Harmon favors the assertion of state rather than federal authority. He claims that his position as attorney general has been misrepresented and cites the fact that he was the first to make the Sherman law stick by his successful suits against the Transmissouri Freight association, the Joint Traffic association and in the Addystone Pipe case. Strangely enough, the decision in the last named action was made by Circuit Judge William H. Taft. While Harmon was in office investigations were started into the affairs of the beef trust and other corporations.

"Guilt Is Personal."

When Roosevelt was president Mr. Harmon and Mr. Judson of St. Louis were named as special counsel for the government in the famous Santa Fe rebate case. In their report they severely criticised Paul Morton, who had been an official of the Santa Fe, but was then in Roosevelt's cabinet. In the correspondence following this report Governor Harmon gave birth to the famous sentence, "Guilt is always personal."

The phrase is fairly illuminative of his stand on the trust question. Instead of prosecuting the corporations he would go after the men behind them. The logical outcome of this attitude would be the enforcement of the criminal clause of the Sherman law, but whether or not this would be his course in the presidency Governor Harmon has not indicated. From his habits of thought and his record the conclusion is justified that it would be.

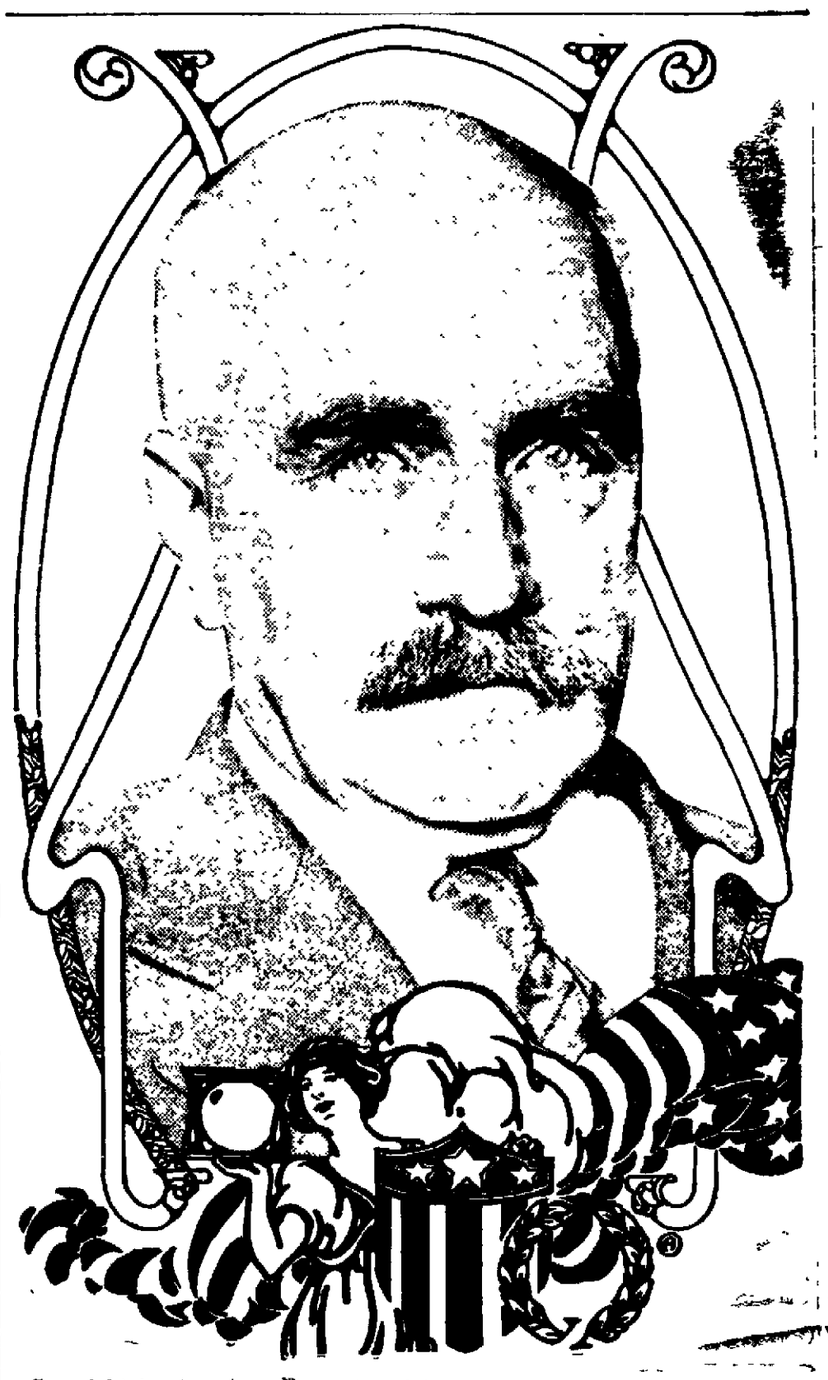

One of the strongest notes sounded by the Ohio executive is for economy. It is on this that he has made a record in his own state. He is fond of quoting the statement of former Senator Aldrich to the effect that $300,000,000 annually could be saved by business methods in the departments at Washington If his administration in Ohio is any indication of his course at Washington, Harmon as president would equalize taxes, cut out graft, systematize the departments and introduce economy at every possible point. He has done that in Ohio.

His Record as Governor.

Among the things accomplished by Governor Harmon in his own state outside of those already mentioned are these "The selection of judges by rings and bosses was abolished. The choice of federal senators by the people was provided for. The primary election laws were extended. Better and more economical management of public institutions was secured. Compensation for all injured workmen was provided. Various measures for the protection of working men and women were enacted A fair and effective public utilities bill was passed and put into operation Approval of the income tax amendment theretofore refused was given." All of this is taken from a speech of Governor Harmon himself, nor does it complete the list.

Judson Harmon is a Cleveland Democrat, who is never ashamed of his former master. He is something of a sportsman, plays a good game of billiards, is large and loose jointed and is called "Uncle Jud" by nearly everybody, including his political opponents.

There are many arguments in favor of his candidacy, but the chief is that he received 100,000 majority for governor of Ohio That is unanswerable.

National Delegate Candidate.

Charles M. Kerr of Wrightsville, York county, has announced himself as a candidate for delegate to the Democratic National Convention to be held in Baltimore in June. Mr. Kerr has long been an admirer of Governor Wilson of New Jersey, and has a brother, the Rev. John T. Kerr, of Elizabethtown, N. J., who was a classmate of Governor Wilson at Princeton.

Following is Mr. Kerr's letter:

To the Democracy of the Twentieth Congressional District.

I desire to announce my candidacy for delegate to the Democratic National Convention, which meets in Baltimore June 25th, 1912, to select a candidate for President on the Democratic ticket.

I am a great admirer of Woodrow Wilson and am heartily in accord with the lofty principles of good government for which he stands and, if chosen to represent this district at the coming National Convention, I shall do all in my power to have him nominated for President of the United States.

Thanking all for their influence and support, I am,

Respectfully,

CHARLES M. KERR.

National Delegate Candidate.

I hereby announce my candidacy for delegate to the Democratic National convention, which meets in Baltimore June 25, 1912, to select a candidate for president on the Democratic ticket.

We are entering upon a period of remarkable business efficiency all over the country, and it seems to me that we should make every effort to introduce this particular kind of efficiency into government as well as into commerce. I have watched with a great deal of interest Woodrow Wilson's advent into politics All his life he has made a careful scientific study of political government, and from his speeches one can easily learn that he has ideas and convictions upon governmental problems far in advance of any one in public life today, and by his governship of New Jersey he has abundantly shown that he has the ability to deal with concrete governmental problems.

My observation of Woodrow Wilson's activities has only served to increase my admiration for him, and to strengthen my conviction that he is the one man to lead Democracy to success next fall.

If chosen to represent this district at the coming National convention, I shall do all I can to have him nominated for president of the United States.

Thanking all for their influence and support, I am

Respectfully,

6t S FORRY LAUCKS

Announcement.

After over half a century of unselfish and devoted service in the ranks of the Democratic party and a wheel horse in every campaign in support of the party nominees, I have, bowing to the persuasion of numerous Democratic friends, consented to become a candidate for the distinctive honor of representing the Democracy of the 20th Congressional District as one of the two delegates to the Democratic National Convention, to assemble in Baltimore, June 25th, 1912. Having no personal ends to serve, if chosen, I go there myself with substitution, to represent the Democracy of my district. Their choice of a candidate shall be my choice and receive my vote unbossed, without dictation from any person. As the chosen representative of the Democracy I pledge myself to obey their every wish in the selection of a candidate. This is the platform upon which I stand and in announcing my determination to become a candidate, I most respectfully ask the support and influence of my fellow Democrats.

Devoe Takes Less Gallons Always

Paint Devoe; it's the cheapest paint in the world: never mind the price; it may or may not be more. Less gallons will paint the house; and the paint will outwear anything.

Skip wear; you've got to wait, to find that out It covers more; you havent got to wait to find that out.

It's the cheapest of all; no matter about the price.

Mr. A. H. Rebert, same town, has lots of buildings; paints Devoe; pays 20 cents more a gallon for it; is glad to, says it's the cheapest there is.

Black Hand Letter.

William A. Himes the well known shoe manufacturer of New Oxford on Tuesday evening of last week received a "Black hand." The letter was posted at the New Oxford postoffice the same day and demanded that he place the sum of $500 under a large stone at the Myers garage and that if he failed to yield to this demand his house and family would be blown up. Should the recipient give the matter into the hands of detectives the "Black Handers" threatened to give him a fate similar to that promised for his family. The letter was written with a lead pencil and very poorly executed. It was signed with a "black hand" and is thought by New Oxford residents either to be the work of boys excited by reading dime novels or to have been perpetrated by some stranger.

RICHMOND Suction Cleaner
IN YOUR OWN HOME 5 DAYS FREE

We want every woman in America to have the opportunity to try the RICHMOND Suction Cleaner in her own home. And to show our unbounded confidence in the machine, we've decided to send it out on 5 days free trial.

Use it as much as you like. Clean your carpets and rugs, your upholstery, curtains, walls, ceilings, mattresses, pillows, etc.

See for yourself how it makes everything as bright and new as the day it was bought. See how it cleans without raising a particle of dust, how it makes after dusting unnecessary. Watch it get the dirt from under heavy furniture behind radiators and from other inaccessable places.

Try the nine special attachments which we furnish with every machine—the hair-drying tool, the tools for cleaning clothes, book-shelves, etc.

RICHMOND Suction Cleaner

Compare this easy, pleasant method of cleaning with the disagreeable backaching drudgery of brooms, mops and dusters.

Put the machine in every test you can think of.

Then at the end of 5 days if you are willing to part with the machine simply notify us and we'll send for it.

On the other hand if you wish to keep the machine you can pay for it on Easy Monthly Payments out of the actual money which the machine saves for you.

A liberal discount will be allowed those who pay cash.

The experience of most purchasers is that the RICHMOND Suction Cleaner pays for itself in from twelve to thirty months.

It pays for itself, first, because it does away with the annual or semi-annual tear-ups called housecleaning (and housecleaning costs more than you think unless you have figured it out).

It pays for itself, second, because it doubles and trebles the life of floor coverings, hangings, furniture, wall paper, decorations, etc.

The RICHMOND Suction Cleaner weighs but 10 pounds. It can easily be carried upstairs, downstairs anywhere without the least fatigue. It is a truly portable cleaner.

A RICHMOND is built with a view to long durability and we cover it with the broadest possible guarantee. It is simple in construction. There is nothing to wear out. There are no gears, no diaphragms, no valves. Nothing to jiggle loose. To operate, simply attach to any electric lamp socket. Costs about one cent per hour to operate.

Surely you must see that the RICHMOND Suction Cleaner must give perfect service, perfect satisfaction, day after day, month after month, else we could not afford this offer

But don't take our word for it. Find out for yourself. Try a machine at our risk. If it doesn't make good—if it doesn't more than come up to your expectations, simply tell us to take it away. Could anything be more fair?

Remember it costs you nothing if you decide to keep the machine. All we ask is that $1.00 be deposited with us as evidence of good faith and to keep away triflers. The $1 00 will be refunded in case the machine is returned.

Prices Range from $40.00 to $85.00.

Here Today, Gone Tomorrow.

In 1901 Vancouver, B. C., had only 27,000 inhabitants. With its suburbs it has now 127,000. But it is at this moment engaged in revising its list of voters. The list under revision contains some 20,000 names and from it no less than 6,000 are to be removed as no longer resident.

If the last revision occurred three years ago this means that every year one-tenth of its voters leave Vancouver. As the larger proportion of its floating population cannot consist of voters this would imply that during the last ten years some 200,000 people have spent some time in Vancouver, and of them nearly half have declined to settle there.

Some of course have gone to other parts of the province, but it seems more than probable that the greater number have crossed the border to the United States. Altogether the immigrant population of Canada is in a very fluid condition. If this be the case after ten years of apparent prosperity one can judge what will be its condition if a reaction should set in.—America.

UNCLE JOE'S PLAN

By M. DEBELL

Mercy Schuyler wandered about the familiar rooms with sorrow tugging at her heart strings. Just three months ago her half-sister had been laid to rest, but it seemed like years to Mercy. Peace Schuyler had been fifteen years her elder, and had taken full charge of little Mercy left motherless when hardly old enough to walk. Peace was a quiet, self contained person, and faithfully performed her duty toward the small sister who truly loved her.

Now Peace was gone, and Mercy must take up the old life alone after her long visit to distant relatives. This was the first day without her sister, and Mercy could not seem to settle down at her accustomed duties. When a timid knock sounded at the door she answered it gladly, to be confronted by a chubby youngster holding a ball of gray fur.

"Come in Annie, I am delighted to see you," said lonely Mercy, but the little girl answered:

"Thank you, Miss Mercy, I can't come in, but mother thought you must feel lonesome and she said I might bring you one of my kittens," and she carefully passed over the gray ball, which gave a soft purr as it was pressed to Mercy's cheek.

"Thank you a thousand times, dear." Mercy stooped to kiss the child.

This was the very first kitten Mercy had ever possessed. The mite seemed to know that its task was to cheer up its new mistress, and played all sorts of pretty antics for her benefit, until at last it fell asleep in her lap.

As she sat with the kitten's head smuggled against her hand, another knock sounded at the door; and gently placing her little pet on a cushion Mercy started to find who was her second visitor. A very small girl, dressed in a slimsy black rock, stood on the doorstep. Mercy recognized her as a daughter of a young widow who had been supporting her child and herself by dressmaking. The little one spoke at once.

"Oh Miss Mercy, won't you let me stay with you? Mother died last week, and they are going to take me to the orphan asylum tomorrow. Annie just came to tell me good-bye, and she said that she had given you a kitten; so then I thought maybe you might take me, too. I'll be as good as ever I know how—and I don't want to go way off to the awful asylum." She poured all this out in one breathless stream, and ended by breaking into a storm of sobs.

Mercy gathered the child into her embrace, and fairly carried her indoors. "Don't cry so, dearie," she said softly, as the tears continued to flow and a pair of arms were flung about her neck as if their owner never intended to let her go. "I am sure there is something better than the orphan asylum in store for you."

After much soothing she succeeded in calming the child, and heard the sad story of her bereavement. She had not a relative in the world so far as she knew.

To Mercy Schuyler it seemed as if Providence itself had guided this little one to her door. She had liked both the brave young widow and small Grace ever since she first met them. For a moment she pondered the matter, gently rocking back and forth in the big chair, while Grace with one arm still clasped round her friend's neck, regarded her with anxious eyes. At last Mercy spoke.

"Yes, dear, you shall stay with me. Why just see, it makes a trio from the Bible—Grace, Mercy and Peace—only Grace came last this time instead of first," and she kissed the little face, whose look changed from fear to happy relief.

Grace did not understand Mercy's scriptural allusion, but she fully comprehended the fact that she had found a home, and was saved from the dreadful asylum.

"Dear Miss Mercy, I love you," she whispered with a squeeze, "and you will like me a little won't you—I haven't anybody but you."

"I love you already, my little Grace," assured Mercy.

The village authorities were well satisfied that little Grace Scranton should be given over to Mercy Schuyler's keeping, rather than bundled off to the asylum. Mercy felt that she had a real interest in life now, and the household of three entered upon a quiet but far from unhappy round of existence.

When Grace had been in her new home for over six months, a letter came addressed to Mrs. Mary Scranton, and was handed by the postmaster to Mercy Schuyler. Great was her surprise on reading it to Grace to find that the letter was from Mrs. Scranton's brother, informing her of his arrival in the United States, and that he should come at once to his sister. "So look for me just as soon as you receive this. I have lots of good news to tell you. Your long lost, but found forever and ever, brother, Joseph," the epistle concluded and Grace cried as Mercy read the name.

"Why, it must be uncle Joe, who was drowned in a shipwreck more than a year ago!"

Mercy smiled feebly. "It looks as if uncle Joe were not drowned after all," she said without much enthusiasm. Her face grew grave as she asked, "What shall I do if your uncle wants to take you away from me?"

"Oh, I just wouldn't go," answered her small adorer, twining both arms about Mercy's neck. "You are the one I love."

Mercy felt the joy of that childish caress, but a fear began to shape itself in her thought. What right had she to refuse him, if this new found uncle should claim his little niece?

The morning after the letter there came a sharp knock at Mercy Schuyler's door, and she opened it well knowing who it must be. A tall, fine looking much-bronzed man stood before her.

"Is this Miss Mercy Schuyler?" And, upon being assured that it was, he continued: "I am told that you have by little niece staying with you—can I see her?"

Folowing Mercy into the house he spied Grace standing near the window. He at once caught her up in his arms.

"You poor baby," he said in a broken voice. "To think you are all that is left to me on earth—but how glad I am that there is you," and he kissed her so lovingly that small Grace could not help giving him a small hug in return.

Then there followed the whole tale of his having been cast away on an uninhabited island with the half dozen others who were saved from the wrecked ship, as helpless prisoners, until their rescue only a few weeks back.

All his ventures had proved successful, and Joseph Granville had been hastening home to gladden his sister's heart with the news that she should live with him in ease and comfort.

Later the subject which Mary Schuyler dreaded was broached. 'Grace will have to take her mother's place now, in caring for her lonely uncle. And believe me, Miss Mercy, you have my life long gratitude that you have so kindly cared for the baby." His sincerity was evident, but Mercy's face showed only sorrow, while Grace began to cry and cling close to her beloved guardian.

"I don't want to leave Miss Mercy," she sobbed.

Mercy asked: "What shall I do without my little girl?"

At first Joseph Granville looked nonplussed, then he took heart and said:

"It would not be showing much gratitude to rob you of the youngster if you want her; so perhaps it will be best for her to stay with you at present, and I will see if I can't win some of her affection for myself."

Mercy thanked him. "I should be simply desolate without Grace," she concluded.

Uncle Joe settled down as a boarder in a comfortable farm house near by, and spent most of his waking hours in the company of Mercy Schuyler and Grace.

Late one afternoon as they were returning from a walk, Grace running on ahead, Joseph Granville said to Mercy: "I have thought out a perfect plan to make Grace and myself happy, if only you will consent to it."

"Tell me what it is," commanded Mercy in quick alarm, and Joseph answered:

"Grace is beginning to like me, but she would never be content away from you; and I have followed Gracie's example and fallen in love with her guardian. Won't you take us both for life? You are the dearest and best woman on earth," he ended fervently.

For a little space there was silence, then, "I think your plan is a good one," said Mercy at last, giving him a shy smile. "And I am willing to try it for all our sakes."

Waldheim Dam Carried Away.

Ice and high water have completely swept away 35 feet of the breast of the dam at Waldheim on the Conewago and has put the Arendt mill out of commission. In some places the ice was piled up ten feet in height and large cakes were found far from the banks of the stream. It is estimated that it will take $1,000 to rebuild the dam. The owner of the mill is doubtful whether he will rebuild the dam and a meeting will be held this week by a number of people of Hanover who have been camping at Waldheim each summer for purpose of raising the money to buy the mill and rebuild the dam. Mr. Arendt has given an option to buy his property for $2500.

U. S. Maneuver Camp Facts.

The exact facts as to status of the U. S. Maneuver camp heralded in this place last Saturday as going to Mount Gretna are as follows: Saturday night the War Department denied by phone that they had any official knowledge or otherwise on the subject. The department had previously declared that no final decision would or could be made until the appropriation bill providing for the camp had passed Congress and no such appropriation has been made or is near passage. Mount Gretna was recently inspected by a Capt. Thorne who reported favorably and his division commander has expressed approval but the War Department has not approved and knows nothing about it and the final say is up to the Department and it is more possible for the camp to go to Texas than either Mount Gretna or Gettysburg.
